THE TIMES READY-REFERENCE SHEET.

A convenient and useful thing, not only to strangers and tourists, but to citizens of Los Angeles, would be a READY-REFERENCE SHEET of popular local information, giving the names and location of the chief transportation lines, the leading hotels, churches, public buildings, secret societies, boarding-houses, restaurants, suburban resorts, literary societies, banks, real-estate and insurance agents, attorneys, physicians, etc.

Such a sheet THE TIMES is preparing to put out. It will contain, besides the above lines of information, a long list of business cards, making it particularly useful to business men.

THE READY-REFERENCE SHEET, occupying a page of THE TIMES, will run through a full edition of 15,000 copies of the paper, and be printed, besides, on a large number of card sheets for special circulation and permanent posting.

An agent will call upon business men, explain details and give prices. Full information can also be had at this office.

AMUSEMENTS TONIGHT.

PARK THEATRE—Little Lord Fauntleroy.

The disclosure that the District of Columbia has more appointees in the Treasury Department than the State of Indiana is well calculated to startle the country and to suggest the inquiry: "Where are we at?"

It is said that Senator Turpie speaks eight languages, while Senator Voorhees speaks Washish alone. But when it comes to asking Mr. Cleveland to please pass the pie Senator Voorhees's single dialect beats Turpie's eight.

The World's Fair management has sent out a statement contradicting the report that drinking water will cost almost as much as beer at the big show. Nature's beverage will be absolutely free, but a great many people will not require it.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press thinks that odious comparisons should not be drawn between the action of the administration in doling out offices to Democratic editors and the action of Dante's guide during a memorable journey through hell, when he threw a handful of dirt into the mouth of the dog to stop its outcry and savage demonstrations.

The Montezuma (Ga.) Record reports a hen that lays eggs shaped like a gourd with a neck or handle. This, an exchange thinks, would indicate that the Georgia Democrats are anticipating another visit from Gen. Weaver and Mrs. Lease, and they have persuaded the hens to lay hand grenades that will admit of greater convenience and facility in handling.

The President has complied with conventional practice in sending an ambassador to Great Britain on notification that Great Britain has sent an ambassador to us. The pay is the only difference between the "minister" and the "ambassador" in the case of Sir Julian Pauncefote; but there is not even that difference in the case of Thomas F. Bayard. Congress alone can increase the salary of his post, and Congress will not. Sir Julian Pauncefote may indulge in a pompous equipage at $50,000 a year in Washington. Mr. Bayard will be content with a hansom most of the time in Piccadilly and Pall Mall on $17,500 a year.

The New York Legislature has placed a great power in the hands of the Commissioner of Public Works in the city of New York. It has given him power to protect the Croton water shed which supplies New York city with water, and to destroy anything that stands in the way of pure water. The first day on his investigations the commissioner ordered the destruction of the post village of Kensico, which occupied a narrow strip of land on the east shore of Kensico Lake. He tore down a barn and burned it, and gave the people ten days to move before their homes should be destroyed. Such use of such power in the West might start a riot, but New York is a great city with several millions of lives to protect, and a small village should not be allowed to stand in the way of giving them pure water.

The Great Southwest, a horticultural magazine of San Diego, publishes an editorial in which it holds that great injury has been done to fruit-growers, as well as to every line of industry in California, by the recent breaking up of the Pacific Coast division of the Weather Bureau, and the withdrawal of the general forecast officer, Lieut. John P. Finley. We are not prepared to say that the service of the Weather Bureau as now conducted on this Coast is lacking in efficiency; but we have hitherto expressed regret that a man who had accomplished so much for the science of meteorology in this important field should be displaced from the division by a turn of the political wheel. The disorganization of the Pacific Coast service, as he had established it, was one of the effects of the transfer of the Weather Bureau from the army to the Agricultural Department. On all principles of fairness and efficiency Lieut. Finley should have remained at the head of the bureau.

ports must grow together by sympathetic action. San Pedro, no matter how important it becomes, cannot draw away the developments already sure for Santa Monica. But it is morally certain that, if we get the deep-sea harbor at San Pedro, we shall have another transcontinental railroad, and the ocean and interior commerce of Southern California will be multiplied many fold. Which shall it be, this grand increase of prosperity all along the line, of which Santa Monica is bound to secure an important part, or no Government harbor at all and an insignificant share of Pacific commerce?

We say it is the manifest duty of every well-wisher of Southern California to do all in his power to secure the Government appropriation as recommended by the board of engineers. It is the duty and the best policy of Santa Monica people no less than of the rest. We must strike for San Pedro or we shall get nothing from the Government.

Profit-sharing.

One of the most successful profit-sharing establishments in the country is the N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Company of Leclair, Ill. It was established seven years ago on the model of the Maison Leclair, the Godin works at Guise, the Angouleme Paper Mills and the Bon Marché at Paris. From an address recently delivered by Mr. Nelson, the founder, in New Orleans, the following points are taken:

The company now has 500 employees at its works. After paying regular wages and 6 per cent. interest on capital, it sets aside 10 per cent. of the profits for a reserve fund to meet losses, 5 per cent. of the profits for a provident fund to care for the sick and the families of deceased employees, and then divides the remainder at the rate of 2 per cent. on wages to 1 per cent. on capital. The dividends on wages have in seven years amounted to 34 per cent. The provident fund is managed by a committee of employees elected by themselves. The working day has been reduced to nine hours a day at regular intervals, without any apparent diminution in production. The company acquired a tract of 125 acres of land eighteen miles from St. Louis with the purpose of erecting factories and building homes for its men. The village was called Leclair in honor of the founder of profit-sharing. It now contains a half dozen brick factory buildings, heated by steam and lighted by electricity, waterworks, a cooperative store owned and conducted entirely by the men, a bowling-alley and billiard room, a lecture hall and library, a kindergarten and school, a band and a literary society. The streets are not run at right angles, but, in the manner of park roads, are paved with cinders and skirted by four-foot sidewalks and lines of trees. Cottages of good architectural design are built for employees on plans supplied by the company. The houses are built on lots of about one-third of an acre, with a building line of not less than forty feet, are supplied with water and electric light, water being free and the lights 25 cents a month. The streets are sprinkled and lighted by electricity free of charge. By common consent, no vegetable gardens are made about the premises, the grounds being devoted to grass, shrubbery, fruit trees and small fruits. A neighboring coal mine supplies coal slack for the factories at $1 a carload, and lump coal at 70 cents a ton, which the cooperative store buys and retails to its members at the local retail rate. Once in two weeks a lecture is given by university professors from St. Louis, by city attorneys and by other capable lecturers. The lectures are always given to large and attentive audiences. Every other week the literary society has an essay or a discussion, singing and reading. The kindergarten has more than anything else enlisted the public interest. The work is still in progress and will continue so long as there are refugees to be cared for.

The alliance has 1086 members. From various sources it received $8717.95, and disbursed $4266.26. The officers are: President, P. H. Lillenthal; president, M. S. Elmer; A. Auspacher and Marion Leventritt, vice-presidents; executive committee—B. Sheideman, treasurer; E. L. Wolfe, financial secretary; S. Dunkelstein, Joseph Napack, J. J. Schaefer, and finally L. J. Aschheim, H. P. Bush, S. Sweet, Jules Cerf, Herman Levy, Joseph Kahn, Adolph Kutner, I. W. Goldman, Louis Blank, S. M. Marks, J. Greenbaum, Emanuel M. Heller, Julius Jacobs and Louis Brown.

It is worthy of note that Mr. Bayard, the new Ambassador to England, is the same man who, as Secretary of State of Cleveland's former administration, requested Lord Saville-West to go back home after the exposure of the famous Murchison correspondence (first published in the LOS ANGELES TIMES—"at the proper time.") The intimation now comes through private sources that Lord Saville-West's friends will take occasion to snub the American Ambassador by way of getting even for the bygone episode. This will be lamentable, indeed; but if Mr. Bayard can manage to get recognition from the British government, he will probably pull through. Meanwhile, Mr. Murchison continues to dwell in contentment far from the maddening crowd, and does not care a fig whether the Ambassador is snubbed or not.

By the burning of a new hotel near Jackson Park the other day, Hyde's Congress of Beauties, who had just arrived in preparation for a beauty show during the World's Fair, lost their entire wardrobe. But this will probably not interfere with Mr. Hyde's arrangements; the beauties can play Lady Godiva, Pygmalion and Galatea and several other interesting pieces, and the lost wardrobes will never be missed.

The most sensational magazine article of the month is the first chapter of a pseudo-scientific romance by Camille Flammarion entitled "Omega; the Last Days of the World." It is published in the Cosmopolitan, with a wealth of French illustrations which alone would make it a very striking production. If we are to worry ourselves into a premature decline over the eventual dissolution which we are led to believe is the fate of all things mundane, we may as well beguile the time with Flammarion's highly-pitched fancies as to go through the ordeal in sober, somber earnest with Lieut. Totten or the Adventists. But we have a notion that there are a great many more pressing and profitable things to concern ourselves with than in imagining the details of the great final cataclysm. Everybody now on earth will probably be so dead long before that event that the "subsequent proceedings" will interest him no more.

The vital question in the average Los Angeles mind nowadays is, "Shall we have transfers, or shall we not have transfers?" We want the "pink trip slip" nominated in the bond before any more franchises are granted.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Gratitude and Hope.

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] There is no doubt if all its generous favors, public and personal, were duly acknowledged, the columns of THE TIMES would scarcely find space for the expressions of grateful gratitude for the recent kindly references to myself and my humble efforts, and permit me to say that, though I find the battle for existence in these later years of failing strength, and varied and severe infirmities, exceedingly toilsome and painful, I am yet sustained constantly with the hope, and the conviction, that all things will work together for good for those who follow not, but on each day do their best to meet the vicissitudes of life. Gratitude leads me to express my most stormy and cloudy day I look contentedly for a quiet, peaceful, restful sunset. J. C. PELTON.

SELF-DEFENSE.

Where Ignorance is Taken Advantage of to Bring Ruin on a Victim.

No power on earth can save an ignorant man if he once gets into the clutches of an evil-intending person. His only possible defense is to become educated himself. This is often hard and sometimes impossible in the case of poor people. Ignorance leads to being deceived upon them without leaving them any alternative. If an age of tyranny should come upon America, thousands of laboring men who are naturally smart and even, perhaps, brilliant, would be reduced to the level of the superior influence of the knowledge possessed by the tyrants. Happily, however, there is a great change coming over the poor man's possibilities. He can now obtain as good as a college education without spending 1 cent of money for it. The great good of the superior influence of the knowledge possessed by the tyrants. Happily, however, there is a great change coming over the poor man's possibilities. He can now obtain as good as a college education without spending 1 cent of money for it. The great good of the superior influence of the knowledge possessed by the tyrants. THE SUPERVISORS.

A Number of Bonds on Saloon Licenses Approved.

Action Taken in the Matter of Widening Vermont Avenue.

Justice Bartholomew to Be Allowed Quarters in the Courthouse.

General Road Matters Disposed of—Demand Sheets of Current Expenses Signed—The Board Adjourns Until Saturday.

The Board of Supervisors met yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, Supervisor Forrester presiding in the absence of Chairman Cook.

Bonds for the saloon licenses of J. P. Ayiva, J. J. Mattos, E. Naramio, W. A. Bloeser, Bernardino Eñalde, F. B. Wers, G. E. Smith and Edward Roberts were examined, and, upon being found in regular form with satisfactory securities, were approved.

The report of the viewers in the matter of widening Vermont avenue was read. Objections were raised by certain property-owners on the grounds that the damages were not sufficient. It was therefore ordered, upon motion of Supervisor Hay, that proceedings be dismissed.

Resident property-holders of Azusa petitioned that a road be laid out and constructed in this district, to commence at a point in the eastern line of Citrus avenue, said point being the central point of the proposed road. The road to be forty feet in width, and extend from the point of commencement along the section line between sections 11 and 12, thence east along the section line of section 12, one mile, more or less, to the western line of Glendora avenue. The road to be known as Cienega avenue.

Action in the matter was postponed until the afternoon session.

Several demand sheets were ordered signed by the chairman in behalf of the board, and transmitted to the Auditor. Before assembling for the afternoon session the board in a body took a Temple street car and went out to the Colegrove district to investigate the petition of J. C. Hurd, who asked permission to put in a culvert and short side-track near the terminus of the cable road. Upon reassembling the request was granted.

The petition asking that Sunny Slope avenue in the San Gabriel road district be closed was also granted, with the proviso that the board be allowed the right to reopen the same at any such time as necessity may require.

On motion of Supervisor Hay the following resolution was then adopted: Whereas, the rapid settlement along Vermont avenue, south of Pico, and the greatly increased travel and traffic on the same requires the full width of the same, to-wit, sixty feet, to accommodate such travel, therefore it is

Resolved, that the whole width of said street shall hereafter be used for road purposes from Pico street south to Vernon avenue; all persons are hereby prohibited from planting trees within the sixty-foot limit of said avenue, and it is further ordered that the board be authorized to serve on all property-owners on said road of the order, and that all persons now having trees planted within the limits of said road to be notified to remove the same on or before the 1st day of January next, by digging the same out, so that the street can be graded to a width of sixty feet.

In accordance with the suggestion embodied in the opinion of the District Attorney, relative to clerk and office rent for Justice Bartholomew, it was ordered that the latter be allowed the use of room 40, in the courthouse, for holding his court, and, also, that he be allowed a clerk's salary of $50 per month, commencing April 1 last.

Hearing of the report of the viewers on Rosedale avenue was postponed indefinitely.

The Norwalk and Puente Mills road matters coming up as a set order from a previous postponement, it was moved and carried that the same be declared a public highway, according to the lines established by the County Surveyor. The same order was made in relation to Cienega avenue, in the Azusa Road District, Supervisor Cook being authorized to attend to the opening of the last-named proposed thoroughfare.

The board then adjourned until Saturday morning at the usual time.

THE DEMOCRATS DIVIDED.

Differences of Opinion as to the Distribution of Federal Patronage.

The San Francisco Chronicle of Wednesday, discussing the general political situation, and the distribution of Federal patronage, says:

In national affairs there is a wide breach between the Congressional delegation and the Democratic State Central Committee. The committee on Saturday last adopted a resolution calling for a meeting on April 15 for the purpose of endorsing candidates for Federal positions, and the Congressional delegation was invited to be present. The invitation was simply an act of politeness. Nobody thinks that any of the Congressional delegation will be present on account of the wide difference of opinion between the Senators and Representatives on one side and the State Central Committee on the other, as to who should receive the appointments.

It is thought that each member of the committee will energetically favor himself for an office. The original division between the committee and the delegation was caused by the fact that the committee wanted to have the exclusive right to name the appointees and look to the delegation only for advice. The course of the State Central Committee is purely a question of politics. They desire to parcel out the places to the men who have done most politically for the party and without regard to the actual fitness of candidates. In other words, they wish to use the Federal service to reward political workers. This plan, if Cleveland's alleged abhorrence of such base misuse of the Government service is correctly reported, will not meet with much favor at Washington.

Members of the committee claim that they have received information from headquarters at the capital that candidates bearing the committee's endorsement will be considered above the candidates named by the delegation. They even go so far as to state that Cleveland himself has informed friends that he was tired of the squabbling in the delegation and has asked the committee to recommend men for office.

The committee claims that the Congressional delegation has succeeded, through its bickering and squabbling, in getting California gloriously left, everything of value in the diplomatic service having been given away and not a single Californian having been heard of. Now the President delays making appointments to California offices in cases where the terms of Republican incumbents have almost expired.

There has been considerable feeling throughout the State over the loss of the Japanese mission, a position to which California was supposed to have special claims, if not exclusive jurisdiction. The course of Senator White in advocating Dwyer for the Japanese mission, when everybody here thought if he recommended a man of standing and dignity California would have received the appointment, meets with unreserved criticism.

Another thing that caused absolute consternation among the local Democrats was the fact that Senator White demanded that Dwyer be permitted to have a voice and vote in the delegation on the subject of the distribution of patronage. This proposition caused a terrific storm in the delegation. It was denounced as the cheekiest proposition yet offered. Geary threatened to leave the delegation and kick up a terrible rumpus if it were carried. White fought energetically, but his plan failed and was voted down. Since this news reached San Francisco people have been wondering who authorized Dwyer to distribute California patronage. His course in Washington will probably be a lively topic for discussion at the meeting of the committee.

Spectacles for Animals.

(New York Sun.) The practical value of green goggles for cows, to prevent snow blindness, is well understood on the American and Russian plains. The work of opticians for other animals is a more recent development. We now have short-sighted horses and dogs which wear spectacles and appreciate highly the advantage of thus being enabled to recognize friends and surroundings which were formerly indistinct. The owner of a near-sighted horse which has spectacles fastened on the headstall says he objects even to going out to pasture without his glasses. The horse was a little startled when they were first put on, but clearly manifested his delight when he fully realized their benefit. If turned out to graze without them he will stay near the barn and whinny plaintively till the stableman brings his spectacles.

Do You Know What Coronado Beach Is?

It is the Paradise of the Pacific, the Mecca of tourists in search of rest, health, sport and diversion. "This Land of Sunny Days" where care is a stranger and worry a dead letter. Where dyspeptics forget their ills and pessimists are born again: where sick people get well and well people get fat. It is the Utopia for globe-trotters and the land of Acadia for lotus-eaters.

Come and Tarry

With us awhile and enjoy the "dolce far niente" which is attained here to the height of earthly perfection. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. We've got the pudding—come and eat, drink and be merry. One never gets the "blues" at Coronado Beach.

TODAY if you are on the street shopping step in and see the activity at the dress goods counter. Economical buyers study economical buying. Trade centers on medium-priced dress good—50c to a dollar a yard. Why waste your time in looking at pattern suits? The new extended skirts require more goods. The big sleeves and the wing effects require an additional amount. Pattern suits for the old-time dresses were scant enough for then; more so now. Better styles at 60c, 65c, 75c and $1 you never saw; taken from the rich Scotch and English effects and produced at lower cost in this country; style and appearance with moderate prices. A few self-colored plaids at 75c and a dollar in small, neat effects. Hop suitings are new, and we have them, and yet the cool weather lingers and the shopping goes on. BASES ON BALZ.

A Windy Day for the Northern Citrus Belter.

Old Boreas and the "Little Wonder"
Not on Good Terms.

And in Consequence the Game Went to the Angels.

Brilliant Fielding on the Part of the Home Team, Combined With Some Timely Hitting, Responsible for the Result.

The weather clerk sent Old Boreas out to Athletic Park yesterday to hoodoo Uncle and his northern citrus belt. O. B. blew and sported around in great shape. He sent the fans scampering to the protected heights of the bleachers, he wiped up the earth literally, and deposited particles of it in the eyes of the players, and he rattled the grand stand with earthquake-like motion every once in a while that almost caused sea-sickness, especially for Uncle. But Mr. Boreas discriminated in our favor, somewhat, and blew harder and more persistently at Mr. Baltz than he did when Mr. Roach was in the box. Probably he had heard of Jack's reputation for coolness, and preferred not to engage in a contest with him. With Mr. Baltz he had a dead easy game. When Louie pitched a convex curve Old Boreas twisted it into a concave one, and when the exasperated "little wonder" essayed to buck against the old man by sending a compound one with interest, O. B. just knocked the curve out of it altogether, and left the ineffectual Baltz completely dazed, while ten men walked in front of him to first base. Mr. Roach, on the contrary, wasn't affected a little bit, and pitched straight balls over the plate nearly every time. He fanned one man out, but was hit for single bases in every inning, several times for two and once even for a three-bagger, but he had luck and the boys in the field with him and won the game.

The very first thing that was done was an auspicious fore-runner of the result. "Rasty" Wright took his first on balls or Baltz, either way you want to spell it. "Kid" Hulen was unfortunate and "Pop" McCauley made up for it by knocking out a single. Glen followed and went "Pop" one better, landing himself at second and sending both Wright and McCauley to the plate. This was two runs to start with, a lead which was gradually increased as the game progressed. Uncle also made a good start, getting his new fledgling, Maguire, to second, but the three following gentlemen for reasons, best known to themselves, refused to step the home plate for the cold, cold world.

There wasn't much monkey business about the second inning. Messrs. Van Dyke and Lohman promptly surrendered to the enemy, but Mr. Roach took his time and went over with first on balls. Mr. Wright retired the side by an injudicious hit that was beautifully handled by Mr. Sharp at or near second base. Uncle then tried his luck, and only needed three trials to convince him he wasn't in it. "Buck" Ehrlich fouled out to Mr. Lohman, but Mr. Spies got a base hit. Mr. Sharp, his successor, sent his respects to Mr. Shiebeck, who forwarded them with the utmost dispatch to Mr. Glenalvin, who, with equal promptitude, turned them over to Mr. Lohman, thus retiring Uncle on a double play. The third inning was a repetition of the second so far as runs were concerned, although McCauley was given a base on balls, and Levy, for Uncle, started in with a clean base hit.

In the fourth the home team scored one, although indications pointed to a whole "sloop" of runs. Lytle got to second on a base hit, Van Dyke sent Lytle to third, but was himself put out while trying to steal to second. Lohman took his base on balls. Roach followed with a base hit, but Lytle was captured while nearing the home plate. "Rasty" also got in a base hit that brought Lohman home. "Kid" Hulen got to first because he outran the ball, but "Pop" failed to connect, and Uncle took his turn. Uncle staid just long enough to find out it wasn't his time yet.

The fifth yielded another tally for the Angels. Glenalvin was the lucky man, making a base hit and being advanced by the two succeeding players getting bases on balls. He reached home before a fly to center field could be fielded in. Uncle was nowhere this inning, but in the next he made a start. The Angels were retired in one, two, three order, and Uncle's amateur, Mr. Maguire, worked in a run for him. Shortly after that, and after two men were out, Mr. Van Dyke way out in left field distinguished himself by making a one-handed running catch, hot from "Buck" Ehrlich's hand. The amateur, Mr. Van Dyke's uplifted hand met with such force that it completely upset him for the time being, but he held onto the ball, and earned the plaudits of the multitude.

The seventh was prolific in runs for both sides. The angels took two, and Uncle three. Shiebeck and Glenalvin both flew out, but "Pop" Lytle worried out a base hit and stole to second. Van Dyke took base on ball, then Peter Lohman hit the ball a terrible rap, which was easily a three-bagger, and brought both Lytle and Van Dyke home. But Peter was too ambitious. He wanted to make the first home run of the season. He did not succeed. Uncle's three were also made after two men were out. Levy got to first and to second on Baltz's drive past pitcher. A passed ball by Lohman advanced the two gentlemen, and a three-bagger by Maguire, the amateur, brought both out of the wet. Maguire then scored on Carroll's base hit.

The eighth yielded an egg apiece for both clubs, but in the final inning both scores were somewhat enlarged. Mr. Lytle succeeded in doing the grand act for the Angels, while Messrs. Baltz and Maguire, the amateur, did the same for Uncle. The score now stood 7 to 8, two men out and two on bases. Roach's arm, which had been perceptibly giving out during the last few innings, was almost limp, and something heroic had to be done. Lohman threw the ball to Shiebeck, and that gentleman touched Mr. Power at the right time and place, and the agony was over.

TIPS.

Roach pitched a good game, but Uncle's heavy hitters found him for sixteen hits, a few doubles and one triple. The Angels' fielding yesterday was superb. Without perfect support the game might have had a different ending.

The weather was atrocious, but there was just enough ginger in the game to make it interesting despite the cold wind. Knell will pitch today for Uncle, while Borchers, the new wonder, will hold down the box for the Angels. Game will be called at 2:30.

Mr. Baltz was very kind to the Angels yesterday. He presented them with ten bases on balls, one or more in every inning except the sixth and ninth.

League Standing.

The league standing to date is as follows:

CLUBS.	W.	L.	Draw.	Per Cent.
Oakland.....	9	6	1	.750
Stockton.....	8	7	1	.538
Los Angeles.....	7	8	1	.465

Stockton vs. Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—The Stockton club easily defeated Oakland this afternoon, by a score of 10 to 2. The victors played a fine game in the field, and bunched their hits in the third inning, making four runs. With this lead against them, Oakland became discouraged and made some costly errors. Outside of one inning, Oakland could not hit Harper effectively.

There was no game yesterday in Oakland on account of the rain.

A MISTAKE IN THE MAN.

A Nebraska Youth Whipped Away Time on

[New York Herald.]

"I was traveling from Chicago to Denver several weeks ago," remarked a young Nebraska to a Herald man, "when there came into the car and sat beside me a samsonian individual, whom I thought looked particularly glib. He was dressed in gray and was evidently, so, at least I thought, some itinerant clergyman.

"Well, I was feeling pretty good, and to while away the time I started in by telling him some of my Western yarns. He was very courteous, and listened to my 'hairbreadth escapes' and Indian stories with evident interest. That he believed every word I uttered I didn't for one moment entertain a doubt. He finally asked me where I lived, and I, selecting a town in Idaho at random, replied that my home was at Arrowville, that I was born there, in fact.

"I had just returned, I told him, from the German university, where I had taken a course in mining engineering. He appeared very much interested, and I went on telling him more about myself.

"My father, I continued, had settled in Arrowville early in the '60's; had stolen a young Indian squaw after killing her buck, had married her, and I was the result of the union.

"You hardly appear to have had an Indian mother," he remarked, glancing at my blonde head and light complexion. I thought he was growing more interested, so I continued to pile it on.

"My father," said I, "is the owner of the Red Dog mine and is, I suppose, worth as much money as any man in the Territory. He really built the town, you know; or, rather, you would know if you should ever happen to stay in that town over night."

"My companion looked me over scrutinizingly and I continued: 'Why, there's the town of Shasta, right near Arrowville. It was raided by the Indians four years ago. They had an awful fight over there. I assure you' My father alone killed half a dozen of the painted devils with his trusty rifle. A great town is Shasta. Bound to be a metropolis some day. There's an English syndicate going to invest several millions of dollars in land in that vicinity."

"Here," continued the speaker, "my friend in gray looked out of the window and an amused smile stole over his features. Finally, turning toward me and looking at me squarely in the eyes, he remarked:

"It is very strange, young man, that I have never heard of any of these things before. I have lived in Arrowville, Idaho, for the last fifteen years. I am the mayor of that town."

"Gentlemen," observed the disciple of Munchausen, "I was the worst broke up man you ever saw. Take my advice. Never judge a man by his appearance—at least, not on a railroad train."

His Humble Request.

[Cloak Review.]

"Miss McGurdigan," said the rising young baseball player, as he nervously paced the floor, "I have a request to make of you, and I trust that you will not misjudge me, but, as I intend calling on you regularly for the next month or so, would it be any trouble for you to wear the waist you wore last night—down the front?"

"Certainly not, Mr. Hardbase," replied the queenly Hoboken beauty, "but may I ask the meaning of this extraordinary request?"

"You may," he replied, as he rapidly seated himself by her side and, placing his arm around her waist, began doing business again at the old stand. "I want to get my fingers in shape for the coming season."

Howry & Breese, the Broadway undertakers, have just started upon their second year's business, and although they have not sold much of the "boy-cott" that was placed upon them one year ago by the Undertakers' Association, which comprises all of the old undertakers firms of this city, their fight has been none the less severe. Nor are there any indications of the "combine and trust" relinquishing its efforts in trying to prevent Howry & Breese from obtaining their supplies. And while some of the members of the "combine" have advertised that they do not belong to the trust, they have not successfully denied any assertion made by this independent firm.

CHINESE REGISTRATION.

The Heaten Still Refuse to Comply With the Law.

The Action of the Six Companies Said to Be Directed by the Emperor of China—Mongolians Advised to Send Their Money Home.

There has been no change in the local situation so far as Chinamen complying with the Geary registration law is concerned. There has been some increase in the number of applicants for registration, but nothing like a general disposition to comply with the act. In San Francisco the situation also remains unchanged, as will be seen by the following from the Examiner of Wednesday:

No increase in the registration of Chinese laborers can be reported by the Collector of Internal Revenue. A few days ago the authorities at Washington had under consideration the advisability of making another canvass among the Chinese, serving notice upon them that they must comply with the Geary act or be deported to China after May 5. The Government expended in this district alone over $10,000 in advertising the provisions of the law in the Chinese papers and in the employment of deputies to serve personal notice upon each Chinaman. The work was thoroughly done, and very few of those required to register have failed to do so.

In response to instructions telegraphed from Washington, Revenue Agent C. W. Eldridge made inquiries among the prominent Chinese and upon his report the Treasury Department has decided to expend no more money in notifying those who should obey the law.

In discussing the matter yesterday Mr. Eldridge said: "I devoted considerable time endeavoring to learn just what the Chinese propose doing, and I was convinced that they do not intend to register. There will be some that will register, but they will be family servants and others who are not under the control of the Six Companies."

"From the vice-president of the Sam Yip Company, doing business at 825 Dupont street, I obtained the most direct information concerning the intentions of the Six Companies, of which the Sam Yip Company is one of the most prominent members."

"He informed me, in positive language, that the Chinese laborers will not register. When asked for the reason for such a course, he said that the Emperor of China had requested them not to do so."

"He also said that they expect the law will be declared unconstitutional, but if not, then they will abide by the result of their refusal to obey it."

"When asked if the Six Companies had requested the 150 employees of the East Oakland Tube Mills not to register at present, he said the Six Companies told them not to register at any time because the Emperor did not want them to do so."

"The Six Companies are in earnest, and I think their last circular, as published in the Examiner, will be sufficient to convince their followers that it will be better for them to obey the Six Companies than the laws of this country."

Collector Quinn said: "I have nothing to report concerning registration."

"If the total number registered on May 5 reaches 1500 I will be greatly surprised. Today we received nineteen applications for certificates, five of which were from other towns in the State."

"It has been published by one paper that collectors are charging applicants for certificates a fee of $1. This is not true, at least in my office."

"The Geary act provides that a fee may be charged not to exceed $1 for each applicant, but the Secretary of the Treasury has ruled that no fee shall be accepted. The only expense to be borne by the applicant is 50 cents to pay for photograph."

Yesterday morning a placard written in Chinese was posted on a dead wall on Washington street in Chinatown. No significance was attached to it, and later in the day it was removed.

A translation revealed that it was only another request for the Chinese not to register. It stated that the Japanese were flocking into this city and crowding the Chinese out of business, and employment, and they will lose nothing by going.

It advised the Chinese to get their money together and send it to their people in China, so that in case they are declared constitutional they will be ready to be deported.

A Protest.
The following memorial to the City Council is being circulated and very generally signed:

We respectfully and earnestly protest against the granting of any further franchises to any street railroad companies in this city while such companies fail to fully perform a proper and reasonable service—running their cars so as to make not less than fifteen minutes' headway from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.—upon the lines and franchises already granted them. We further request that our public officers take prompt and forcible steps to secure the complete carrying out of such reasonable service on all franchises now extant in this city, and failing in this, to declare, in due legal form, such franchises forfeited.

The gloomy fears and the weariness of soul, of which so many complain, would disappear if the blood were made healthy before it reaches the brain. Aver's Sarsaparilla purifies and vitalizes the blood, and thus conduces to health of body and mind.

FOR a nice, clean, quick lunch, call to see Cohen at the New England Dairy, First and Broadway. You will be treated right, and away satisfied and cal. again. Open all night.

TWELFTH YEAR.

LOS ANGELES, FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1893.

PRICE: 5 CENTS.

SAVING UP.

"Saving up" is an education in itself. Saving up for an education is good training for a child, much better than saving up for the money's sake or for the sake of spending the money on its selfish pleasures.

And you know, if you have children, that it's just as easy to teach them to save in a good cause as in a bad one. Easier, for a child is quickly interested in a good cause. You can make your children save up for their own education. The great thing is to get them interested. To a child properly handled such an education is a pleasure not a task.

The reason children are not, as a rule, interested in their studies is because they are usually given several books on a few subjects. Generally on subjects they are not interested in—subjects in which they are not naturally fitted to excel.

Let a child once find out, however, in what groove its natural talents lie and you will see it bend all its energies in that direction. With a parent's wise help in the proper channel it is bound to be a "cut above the common."

The way to help is to give your child a library that contains information on everything. Information in an entertaining form. Get it interested in a plan for saving up to get this library, and when secured your child will study it with avidity.

There's only one library full of information on all subjects. Full of the latest information. The Encyclopedia Britannica. It is essentially one that will interest the young, in that it contains information on every subject known to mankind.

The TIMES offers this library for a short time longer to its readers in a set of 25 elegant volumes at only $1.96 per volume, which is less than one-fourth the price of the English edition.

You can secure it for 10 cents a day (payable monthly), or $5 a month. If you pay at the rate of 10 cents a day you get half of the entire set delivered at once and the remainder when the first half is paid for. If you pay $5 a month you get the complete set delivered to you at once.

The TIMES supplies free to each purchaser a dime savings bank for your child to drop its dime in every day, thus inculcating the great principle of economy and—for the sake of education.

You can call and see the complete set at the TIMES Reading Room, 347 South Spring Street, or, if you live in the country and desire to see it before purchasing, a volume will be sent you for examination.

Only a short time remains. Can you afford to let the opportunity pass by?

PETTY OFFENDERS.

Van Selver Before Justice Seaman—San Jose Man Fined.

The arraignment of Attorney Van Selver, on a charge of embezzlement, took place in Justice Seaman's court yesterday morning, and the examination was set for this afternoon.

In the afternoon session Ah Lee and Chick Sam, two Chinamen, found guilty of peddling vegetables without a license, were let off by paying $2 each.

John Henry, Charles Marhofer, and J. T. Bells each pleaded guilty to the charge of selling liquor on Sunday. Justice Seaman stated that since in each of these cases it was the first offense he would let them off with nominal fines. He urged them to remember, however, that for a repetition of the misdemeanor they would feel more severely the rigor of the law. Each of them paid a fine of $5.

Frank Guero, who was arrested Wednesday night for having obtained a team and conveyance of H. C. Spear under false pretenses, entered a plea of not guilty, and his trial was set for April 12.

Annie Brown, charged with vagrancy, pleaded not guilty, and her trial was set for April 19.

Harry Reeves, charged with battery, pleaded not guilty and his case will be tried this afternoon.

The case of John Hughes, charged with disturbing the peace, created considerable amusement. He and his wife have a house at No. 311 San Pedro street and live in a part of it, renting the other part to Mr. and Mrs. Mann. Some time ago there was a dispute in regard to the payment of the rent, and Hughes alleged that he informed the Manns that if they could not pay the rent he would take away the door which separated the two families and they could live together. He proceeded to do this, and so Mrs. Mann said, damaged a curtain belonging to her, and some unpleasant language resulted therefrom. A fine of $10 was imposed upon Hughes.

In Justice Austin's court the cases of Ah Charlie and Ah Jim, both charged with conducting a lottery, came up. Ah Jim paid a fine of $20 and the trial of Ah Charlie was set for this afternoon, he giving a bond in the sum of $100.

W. E. Pardee, found guilty of disturbing the peace, was fined $5.

THE NATIVE SONS.

The Order Will Build a Hall in San Francisco.

Articles of incorporation of the Hall Association of the Native Sons of the Golden West were filed with the County Clerk in San Francisco Tuesday.

The purpose of the association is to construct a building for the order on the lot on Mason street, near Post, recently purchased by resolution of a joint committee representing all the parliors in the city.

The directors for the first year are: W. W. Shannon, Henry Lunstedt, J. H. Grady, T. E. Keough, C. W. Decker, L. L. Denurey, G. D. Clark, W. H. Miller, J. T. Greaney, J. R. Howell, James L. Callagher, H. E. Coffey, L. M. Bannan, W. P. Johnson, James P. Sweeney, A. E. Holmes and Joseph B. Keenan.

The capital stock is $100,000, of which $500 has been subscribed by the directors in small sums, ranging from $5 to $25. It is expected that a majority of the stock will be subscribed for by the parliors of the organization.

What shares may remain will be issued to individual members of the order.

Picked Up in Oakland.

The San Francisco Chronicle of Wednesday says: "Last October Charles Thornton was working in Los Angeles, when he mysteriously disappeared. At the same time a bag containing $200 also vanished. A warrant was issued accusing Thornton of grand larceny. It was supposed that he had come to Oakland, so word was sent here to arrest him. The young man did not show up in this city yesterday, when he was captured by the police. He will be taken to Los Angeles to stand trial on the charge made against him."

A Pleasant Surprise.

[New York Press.] "What a beautiful child!" exclaimed Mrs. Intheswim, pausing before a baby carriage which a nurse was wheeling through the park. "What a lovely complexion! Your face is familiar to me," she added, addressing the nurse, "will you please tell me to whom the child belongs?"

"Bless your heart, ma'am, she's your own, but she has grown a great deal since you saw her last."

The examination of Mrs. Emma Dukes, the witness who was on the stand on Wednesday when the court adjourned for the day, was then resumed by Attorney Shinn. Witness stated that when Sellingscheidt broke open the casing in the closet in Harry's room she carried a close wash tub in there, and, assisted down the west side of the house, to the extent in putting out that fire. Witness was very positive that there were no "children" in there at all. After the crowd had gone, witness and Mrs. Francis walked around the house to see where the first fire had been, and, while coming down the west side of the house, both noticed that the boards round the alrhole, under the closet in Harry's room, were scorched, and witness remarked to Mrs. Francis that there must have been another fire there. There was no smoke or fire at that spot then. They then went into the house together and found Francis, Sellingscheidt and Sloan there in Harry's room. Witness did not notice much about the fire in and under the kitchen, as she did not stay there long, but there were evidences of fire there, in the shape of charred wood and straw. While in Francis's bedroom witness felt the wall between that room and the dining-room, and found that it was warm. She also heard a crackling sound as of burning wood. When the men went upstairs she went into the parlor alone. There were no evidences of either fire or water in the room. The carpet was a light-colored one, and water or ashes would have been very easily discernible had there been any.

Referring to the second fire, Mrs. Dukes stated that she, her husband and her brother were sitting by the fire in their dining-room, talking, when the report of a pistol shot was heard, and Francis again shouted "fire." All three ran out and saw the roof of the Francis house on fire. The blaze was located almost immediately on the place where she had felt the wall to be hot.

Upon cross-examination Mrs. Dukes stated that when she was awakened by hearing Mrs. Francis's shouts, she knew at once that it was the voice of her neighbor, and she was sharp. She denied that at the preliminary examination she testified that Mrs. Francis had a "sharp, sweet voice," even when confronted with the transcript.

With reference to Mrs. McCann and Mrs. Henderson, the witness stated that she saw them coming up from the saloon in the left hand and met them at Francis's front gate. Mrs. McCann asked her who she was, two or three times, and Mrs. Henderson asked her if she was Mrs. McCann. There was a third woman with them, whom witness did not know. It was not Katie McCann. Witness was called upon to retrace her steps all over the premises, but nothing new was developed as to the fire, in spite of the very close questioning to which Mrs. Dukes was subjected by Deputy Dupuy.

About 10:30 o'clock Attorney Owen called the attention of the Court to the fact that Mrs. McCann was in the court room, and in spite of the fact that she had not been summoned as a witness by either side, Judge Smith, at the request of the defense, ordered her to retire, and put her under the rule.

THE FRANCIS FIRE.

The Seventh Day of the Arson Trial.

The Proceedings Enlivened by Another Newspaper Episode.

An Article in the Evening Paper Denounced as False.

Mrs. Francis Tells Her Story of the Destruction of Her House—A Number of Other Witnesses Also Examined.

The trial of the Francis arson case occupied the attention of Judge Smith and a jury in Department One, for the seventh day, yesterday, and, judging from the present rate of progress, it is safe to predict that the case will not be concluded this week, for the defense has not yet put in all of its evidence, and several witnesses will certainly be called in rebuttal.

Except for the fact that District Attorney Dillon again paid his respects to the Evening Express, the day's proceedings were not enlivened by any incident worthy of note, the entire morning session being consumed in the cross-examination of Mrs. Dukes, an unusually bright witness, who held her own with the attorneys in spite of all their williness; and, the afternoon session being devoted to the examination of Mrs. Francis, the wife of the defendant, in whose testimony an unusual amount of interest was manifested.

ANOTHER NEWSPAPER EPISODE.

When the case was called at 9:30 o'clock District Attorney Dillon addressed the Court briefly to the effect that on the previous morning the Court's attention had been called to a newspaper article, which had been denounced by counsel on both sides. He knew what the knave of Mr. Owen, counsel for the defendant, both here and elsewhere, he was convinced that he was sincere, and that his statement with regard to that article had been made in good faith.

He now desired to call the attention of the Court to an article in the Evening Express of the day before, a copy of which he thereupon placed upon the bench in front of Judge Smith, and desired to inform the Court, without any feeling of passion whatever, that both the article he referred to and the affidavit, signed and sworn to by the defendant, which was appended to it, were, in fact, absolutely false and untrue in every particular.

"So help me God, as I love truth and justice," said the District Attorney, impressively, "I have never spoken a word to the defendant, and did not know him until he entered this courtroom last week."

He stated that he was there to conduct the case at the special instance and request of Mr. Dupuy, and that gentleman's feelings toward and infamy with the defendant were such as to place him in a peculiarly embarrassing position. He, personally, had no feeling or prejudice against the defendant whatever, and was actuated by an earnest desire to throw the flood-gates of truth wide open and keep back nothing that would throw light upon the real circumstances surrounding this case. There were no political influences being brought to bear, and he did not intend to allow any covert threats nor intimidation to divert him from turning the search-light of truth upon it.

Judge Smith remarked that as he had not read the article in question, and did not intend to do so, he had no information of the kind; but as the jury had not seen it he could not see that there was any occasion for the Court to interfere.

Public officers were a very prolific field for newspaper men to work upon, and, although he had at times been grossly misrepresented, he deemed it wiser to go steadily along attending to his own affairs, and trusting to time to right all wrongs.

Mr. Owen, of counsel for the defendant, stated that as he did not read the Express, and seldom saw it, the article had escaped his notice. He begged Mr. Dillon, for whom he had the highest regard, not to hold him responsible for the article, and desired to indorse the sentiments expressed by that gentleman at that point.

Shinn stated that the defendant repudiated any knowledge, conception or idea of the publication of such an article. Mr. Francis had studiously tried to avoid any side issues which might tend to prejudice him in this case, and, deeply regretted that he had not been able to do so. He stated that the Court would see, the affidavit referred to was an old one used during a political campaign.

Judge Smith remarked that he considered it due to District Attorney Dillon to state that the Court has no under standing of the world to show that he was trying to take undue advantage, and the same was equally true of the other side.

SOME LITTLE CASES OVERLOOKED.

Some little curiosity existed as to what action the Court would take in regard to the Scott contempt proceedings, which had been continued until yesterday morning; but, in the excitement created by the District Attorney's address, everybody concerned appeared to have forgotten that Mr. Scott ever existed, for neither Judge Smith nor the attorneys mentioned the subject.

W. T. Williams, Esq., of counsel for the defense, was not present at this time, having been called to another department.

THE TESTIMONY.

The examination of Mrs. Emma Dukes, the witness who was on the stand on Wednesday when the court adjourned for the day, was then resumed by Attorney Shinn. Witness stated that when Sellingscheidt broke open the casing in the closet in Harry's room she carried a close wash tub in there, and, assisted down the west side of the house, to the extent in putting out that fire. Witness was very positive that there were no "children" in there at all. After the crowd had gone, witness and Mrs. Francis walked around the house to see where the first fire had been, and, while coming down the west side of the house, both noticed that the boards round the alrhole, under the closet in Harry's room, were scorched, and witness remarked to Mrs. Francis that there must have been another fire there. There was no smoke or fire at that spot then. They then went into the house together and found Francis, Sellingscheidt and Sloan there in Harry's room. Witness did not notice much about the fire in and under the kitchen, as she did not stay there long, but there were evidences of fire there, in the shape of charred wood and straw. While in Francis's bedroom witness felt the wall between that room and the dining-room, and found that it was warm. She also heard a crackling sound as of burning wood. When the men went upstairs she went into the parlor alone. There were no evidences of either fire or water in the room. The carpet was a light-colored one, and water or ashes would have been very easily discernible had there been any.

Referring to the second fire, Mrs. Dukes stated that she, her husband and her brother were sitting by the fire in their dining-room, talking, when the report of a pistol shot was heard, and Francis again shouted "fire." All three ran out and saw the roof of the Francis house on fire. The blaze was located almost immediately on the place where she had felt the wall to be hot.

Upon cross-examination Mrs. Dukes stated that when she was awakened by hearing Mrs. Francis's shouts, she knew at once that it was the voice of her neighbor, and she was sharp. She denied that at the preliminary examination she testified that Mrs. Francis had a "sharp, sweet voice," even when confronted with the transcript.

With reference to Mrs. McCann and Mrs. Henderson, the witness stated that she saw them coming up from the saloon in the left hand and met them at Francis's front gate. Mrs. McCann asked her who she was, two or three times, and Mrs. Henderson asked her if she was Mrs. McCann. There was a third woman with them, whom witness did not know. It was not Katie McCann. Witness was called upon to retrace her steps all over the premises, but nothing new was developed as to the fire, in spite of the very close questioning to which Mrs. Dukes was subjected by Deputy Dupuy.

About 10:30 o'clock Attorney Owen called the attention of the Court to the fact that Mrs. McCann was in the court room, and in spite of the fact that she had not been summoned as a witness by either side, Judge Smith, at the request of the defense, ordered her to retire, and put her under the rule.

Depy District Attorney Dupuy suggested that the line be drawn at wives of witnesses, and that the Court be requested to exclude the cousins, sweethearts and friends of witnesses hereafter.

Mrs. Dukes admitted that she did not know who Mrs. Henderson was until after the fire. She corroborated her husband's testimony as to every detail with reference to the actions of Mrs. McCann and Mrs. Henderson, adding that the latter took the bottle out, handed it to Mrs. McCann and then drank herself. She did not know, however, whether or not the third woman took her turn or not. After sitting down in front of the butcher's shop, the three women got up and walked two blocks away.

Witness admitted that she did not mention the circumstance of the women drinking at the preliminary examination, but explained that she was not asked about it. The other new incidents she testified to were omitted from her testimony at the preliminary examination because she forgot about them, but remembered them as soon as she left the stand.

With reference to McLean, the witness stated that she did not see him at the first fire at all, but at the second. Her testimony, as taken at the preliminary examination, was then read to her, showing that in response to a question put by Justice Bartholomew she stated that it was at the first fire she saw him. She denied that she so testified, and insisted that it was at the second fire.

Upon redirect examination Mrs. Dukes was asked the same impeaching question put to her husband, with reference to the visit of McLean to her house after the fire, and corroborated his statements in every particular as to the conversation which then occurred.

At the conclusion of the witness's examination Attorney Williams stated to the Court that he was not present during the early part of the proceedings, and had only just learned from his associates of the newspaper episode. He therefore demanded, on behalf of the defendant, that an exception be entered to the language used by the District Attorney on that occasion. The exception was duly noted, and a recess was then declared until 1:30 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Harry Francis, son of the defendant, was the first witness called at the afternoon session.

Attorney Shinn proceeded to question the witness as to his ownership of the horse and buggy frequently referred to in the course of the examination. Counsel on both sides showed his willingness to admit such ownership without dispute, and objected to the questions asked on the grounds of irrelevancy and immateriality.

The Court sustained the objections, and after some little further interrogation the witness was excused without being cross-examined.

Mrs. G. W. Warren stated that she had lived on Pico Heights for a year and a half. On the night of the Francis fire she was awakened by cries giving the alarm. The voice she recognized as that of her husband, Harry Francis, was also heard to shout "fire!" She was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

After the District Attorney had got through with the witness, Attorney Shinn arose and asked the privilege of reading a list of names of those whom it was formerly intended by the defense to introduce as witnesses in the impeachment of the character of Mrs. Henderson. The Court having previously ordered that but ten character witnesses be allowed to testify, very promptly refused to allow the reading.

Antonio Sylvester was next called. He, too, took a hand in putting out the first Francis fire. He was somewhat delayed, however, in getting to the scene by an unfortunate oversight on his own part. In the excitement of the moment he forgot to lock his street clothes. After he had gone a little distance he was stopped by a woman, who gave him a push and told him to go home and dress himself. He then went back home and put on his pants, losing considerable time thereby.

After the laughter occasioned by the recital of the incident had subsided, the witness, with his rich brogue, went on to say that he had then made his way to the Francis house, and found the structure in flames. The woman he had met when he first essayed to get to the fire was not Mrs. Henderson. The latter was the person who had awakened him by saying: "Mr. Sylvester get up, Mr. Francis's house is on fire. If you go quick a bucket of water will put it out."

The prosecution took hold of the witness for cross-examination with avidity. He stated in reply to their queries, that Mrs. Henderson was in his yard when he came out of the house. The first fire he saw underneath the kitchen of the Francis house. It was necessary to stoop down and look under the building to see the flames plainly. He met Mr. McLean, and then, joining several other persons, assisted in putting out the flames. The fire was supplied with straw and small pieces of kindling. Two buckets of water were thrown on the fire, and by this time it was entirely out. Going then around to the front entrance, the witness said he went into the hallway and into the right or east bedroom. On the floor of the room was a lamp. The carpet about it was on fire and burning. He saw no one else in the room. There was some furniture about; particularly noticeable, a large chair. He saw no bed, bureau or bookcase there. Witness then went home to get his clothes on. Returning, he perceived that quite a lot of furniture had been brought out, and several bystanders told him that the fire had all been extinguished. He saw Mrs. Henderson again at the second fire. She was not then with Mrs. McCann. He could not tell whether or not she was drunk. At the time of the second fire he was awakened by pistol shots. The sounds did not come from the direction of the Francis house. The roof of the house was burning when he first saw the fire. There was no wind blowing.

Frank L. Park was one of the last witnesses put upon the stand to testify to the character of Mrs. Henderson. He swore, in substance, that the latter's general reputation was not good.

On cross-examination the witness was asked to give the names of a few good people who had talked disparagingly of Mrs. Henderson's character.

"Let him give a few bad ones along with them," remarked Attorney Williams, aside.

The Court promptly called the last named counsel to order, and informed him that if he had any objections, to make them to the judge, to be ruled on in the regular order.

Mrs. Francis's next called out Attorney Shinn.

A hum of expectation ran around the courtroom as the name of the witness was pronounced, which gave evidence of the fact that the defense was bringing its case toward the close.

Mrs. Francis's demeanor was composed, as she was sworn and took the stand. She placed her hands on her lap, and in a calm, low, but distinct voice, she said that on the day of the fire Mr. Francis was at home. In the evening, after her son Harry had gone to Moneta, she asked her husband to go out and get some kindling. He did so, putting them in a nail keg, which was placed near the kitchen door at the north.
